

What's that Word Again?

CEUs: 0.2 PS CEUs

Description:

Sometimes you need just the right words, but they may escape you. This workshop will focus on ASL to English skills, especially using vocabulary that is appropriate for specific settings such as mental health, education, technology, and more. You don't have to be an expert in a subject, but you do need the right words to say. Planning techniques and ways to incorporate new vocabulary will be discussed. There will also be opportunities for practice in a safe space.

Presenter – Ashleigh Krivulka:

Ashleigh Krivulka has been interpreting for 15 years. She earned a degree in Interpreter Education, then National Interpreter Certification. She has worked in an array of settings, everything from education to performance to VRS. She especially loves DeafBlind interpreting, though. She has also taught for an interpreter training program, overseen internships, and mentored interpreters across North Carolina. She volunteers time in the Deaf community regularly along with her husband, Ryan. Together they love to travel the world. Ashleigh is also an avid knitter and is even learning to spin yarn. She lives just outside of Tallahassee, Florida, but the mountains of NC will always be “home.”
